DAN SMOOT

VOTING RECORDS, 1966

In one year (1965), the 89th Congress, under President Johnson's drive for "consensus," enacted unconstitutional, socialistic legislation more damaging to the cause of freedom than all legislation enacted during the administrations of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Harry S Truman, Dwight D. Eisenhower, and John F. Kennedy. During 1966, Johnson's Great Society programs bogged down considerably in the 89th Congress. Yet, oddly enough, during 1966, members of Congress, on roll call votes, made worse ratings by the standards of constitutional conservatism than in 1965.

In the 1965 voting records published by this Report (December 20, 1965), 2 U. S. Senators rated 98% as constitutional conservatives; 2, 93%; 2, 89%; 1, 87%. In 1966, no Senator rated above 85%. In 1965, 22 Senators earned ratings of 70% or better; in 1966, only 17. In 1965, 49 Representatives earned ratings of 90% or better; in 1966, only 19. In 1965, 16 Representatives rated zero. In 1966, 29 Representatives, gauged by the standards of constitutional conservatism, rate zero.

What is constitutional conservatism? It is the reverse of liberalism. Modern liberals do not want government bound by constitutional provisions. They think it should have flexibility to do anything that officialdom claims to be good or necessary. Constitutional conservatives consider the Constitution a binding contract which limits the federal government to the exercise of powers clearly and specifically enumerated.

If the people want the federal government to do something which the Constitution does not clearly authorize, or if changing times make any provision of the Constitution unsuitable for our day, the people should change their Constitution in strict compliance with the amendment process specified in the Constitution — and never permit it to be changed through usurpation of power or through reinterpretation of meaning, by a Congress, a President, or a Court.

When we permit the federal government to ignore constutitional limitations and do whatever officialdom claims to be needed — as we have been doing for a generation under liberal leadership — we abandon constitutional government, and eliminate all effective controls on the federal establishment. The federal government gradually becomes an uncontrollable colossus which usurps powers and revenues of the states, under pretext of helping them.

No matter how well-intentioned a federal program; no matter how honorable and patriotic the people who support and administer it; no matter how big a majority of the citizens may want the program — when our federal government does something which it has no constitutional grant of power to do, our government is a dictatorship. It may for a while seem a good dictatorship, but every dictatorship must ultimately resort to brutal tactics to maintain its power.

The ratings of present Congressmen reveal that a frightening number of them consistently vote for dictatorship. An even larger number have middle-of-the-road records which reveal no political principles: the legislators yield to party pressures, make trade-out deals with other Congressmen, respond to dictates of expediency.

If members of Congress had worse ratings as constitutional conservatives in 1966 than in 1965, how do we account for the fact that Congress rubber-stamped Johnson's legislative program less readily in 1966 than in 1965?

There are two plausible answers: (1) In 1966 — an election year — a backlash of public opinion against Johnson's programs became so strong that middle-of-the-roaders (who constitute a majority in Congress) helped slow down legislation in committee to keep it from going to a vote on the floor where they might have to make a public stand; (2) a few astute political weathervanes in Congress openly responded to growing conservative sentiment among the people. Senator Dirksen was foremost among these. Dirksen — a leading advocate of the unconstitutional civil rights bills of 1957, 1960, 1964, and 1965 — is now a leading opponent of the unconstitutional civil rights bill of 1966. The bills Dirksen helped pass are the same in kind as the bill he now opposes.

Thus, the curious condition: in roll calls for the record, Congress voted more liberally in 1966 than in 1965, but, to date, has blocked more liberal legislation than in 1965, by keeping some controversial bills from going to the floor for a vote.

BEST SENATORS IN 1966. On the basis of 20 roll call votes discussed and tabulated in this Report last week and in this issue, 17 Senators (12 Republicans, 5 Democrats) have conservative ratings of 70% or better:

Curtis (R, Neb.)	85%	Williams (R, Dela.)	75%
Hruska (R, Neb.)	85%	Byrd (D, Va.)	74%
Tower (R, Tex.)	85%	Cotton (R, N.H.)	72%
Simpson (R, Wyo.)	85%	Russell (D, S.C.)	71%
Robertson (D, Va.)	83%	Jordan (R, Idaho)	70%
Hickenlooper, (R, Iowa)	80%	Eastland (D, Miss.)	70%
Thurmond (R, S.C.)	80%	Stennis (D, Miss.)	70%
Bennett (R, Utah)	80%	Young (R, N.D.)	70%
Fannin (R, Ariz.)	79%

WORST SENATORS IN 1966. The following 43 Senators (4 Republicans, 39 Democrats) rate 15% or less:

0% — Bartlett (D, Alaska), Muskie (D, Me.), Kennedy (D, Mass.), Kennedy (D, N.Y.), Pell (D, R.I.), Moss (D, Utah)

5% — Dodd and Ribicoff (D, Conn.), Inouye (D, Haw.), Church (D, Ida.), Brewster and Tydings (D, Md.), Hart (D, Mich.), Mondale (D, Minn.), Mansfield (D, Mont.), Williams (D, N.J.), Javits (R, N.Y.), Clark (D, Pa.), Pastore (D, R.I.), Jackson and Magnuson (D, Wash.), McGee (D, Wyo.)

6% — Bayh (D, Ind.), McCarthy (D, Minn.), Nelson (D, Wisc.)

10% — Gruening (D, Alaska), Douglas (D, Ill.), Long (D, La.), Smith (R, Me.), Bass (D, Tenn.), Randolph (D, W.Va.)

11% — Long (D, Mo.), Case (R, N.J.), Anderson and Montoya (D, N.M.), Harris (D, Okla.), McGovern (D, S.D.), Yarborough (D, Tex.)

13% — Metcalf (D, Mont.), Neuberger (D, Ore.)

15% — Monroney (D, Okla.), Scott (R, Pa.), Proxmire (D, Wisc.)

BEST REPRESENTATIVES IN 1966. On the basis of 20 roll call votes, discussed and tabulated in this Report last week and in this issue, 42 Representatives (16 Republicans, 26 Democrats) rate 85% or better:

100% — Hagan (D, Ga.), Walker (R, Miss.), Williams (D, Miss.), Scott (D, N.C.), Ashmore (D, S.C.), Pool (D, Tex.)

95% — Buchanan and Dickinson (R, Ala.), Haley (D, Fla.), O'Neal (D, Ga.), Passman (D, La.), Watson (R, S.C.), Rogers (D, Tex.)

86% — Long (D, La.)

85% — Andrews (D, Ala.), Smith (R, Cal.), Gross (R, Iowa), Belcher (R, Okla.), Duncan (R, Tenn.), Marsh (D, Va.), Poff (R, Va.)

WORST REPRESENTATIVES IN 1966. The following 29 Representatives, all Democrats, have zero ratings:

California — King, Rees, Waldie; Georgia — Weltner; Illinois — Annunzio, Dawson, Kluczynski, Price, Ronan; Kentucky — Farnsley; Maine — Hathaway; Michigan — Clevenger, Conyers, Dingell, Mackie, Nedzi, Vivian; Minnesota — Blatnick, Fraser; New Jersey — Thompson; New York — Dow, Powell, Resnick, Ryan, Scheuer; Ohio — Ashley; Oregon — Duncan; Pennsylvania — Moorehead, Nix

A famous federal judge — perhaps the greatest jurist of the twentieth century — a gentle, learned man who is a dear friend of mine, once said to me:

"We habitually condemn the President for disastrous and unconstitutional . . . programs. But the President is merely the chief propagandist for these programs: it is Congress which authorizes them and confiscates our money to pay for them.

"The socialist revolution which has already done infinite damage to the American constitutional system would never have been possible if Congress had not supported it and appropriated public money to pay for it.

"We will not restore a free and independent American constitutional republic until the people elect Congressmen . . . dedicated to that ideal."

How do your Congressmen (the U.S. Representative from your district, and the two U.S. Senators from your state) stand on key issues reflecting the great struggle of our time — the struggle between individualism and collectivism; between freedom under a constitutionally limited government, and dictatorship under unlimited government?

If we value freedom, we will work to replace all Congressmen who vote most of the time for dictatorship.

Roll Calls Tabulated In This Issue

RENT SUBSIDIES. In August, 1966, Senator John Tower of Texas led an attempt to delete rent-subsidy funds from an appropriations bill. The Senate defeated Tower's amendment by a vote of 51 to 38, thus approving Johnson's scheme to take money away from some Americans to pay the rent of others. The vote is tabulated in Column 15 under Senate, C indicating a conservative stand against funds for rent subsidies.

URBAN MASS TRANSIT. On August 15, the Senate (65 to 18); and on August 16, the House (236 to 127), passed the Urban Mass Transportation bill (S 3700 and HR 14810). The votes are tabulated in Column 16 under Senate and in Column 20 under House, C indicating a conservative stand against.

As signed into law on September 18, the Act extends for two more years, at a cost of $300 million, the urban mass transit program which was begun in 1964. Under the program, federal tax money subsidizes city transit systems and helps plan solutions of traffic problems — all plans coordinated and approved in Washington by a federal administrator. Johnson says the mass transit program is part of his plan to "completely renew our cities."

DEMONSTRATION CITIES. On August 19, the Senate (53 to 22) passed S 3708, the Demonstration Cities and Metropolitan Development Act of 1966. If approved by the House, this bill would make city governments in the United States subservient tools of the federal bureaucracy. See this Report, "Another Mess of Pottage," March 21, 1966; and "Clouds in Johnson's Patch of Sky," March 28, 1966.

Representative Bill Brock of Tennessee says the metropolitan development section of the Demonstration Cities bill is intended to lay the foundation for a new Education Act of 1967 — already drafted by the U.S. Office of Education — which will give federal bureaucrats autocratic power and billions of tax dollars to force their schemes for racial mixing upon public school systems.

The Senate vote is tabulated in Column 17, C indicating a conservative vote against the Demonstration Cities program.

MINIMUM WAGE. On August 25, 1966, the Senate (51 to 37) defeated an effort to remove farm workers from coverage of the new minimum wage bill. The vote is tabulated in Column 18 under Senate, C indicating a conservative stand against extending coverage of the minimum wage laws to include farmers. On August 26, the Senate (57 to 17) passed the minimum wage bill (HR 13712). This vote is tabulated in Column 19, C indicating a conservative stand against the bill.

FOOD FOR PEACE. On August 31, the Senate (74 to 2) passed HR 14929, the Food For Peace Act of 1966. The vote is tabulated in Column 20, C indicating a conservative stand against.

UNEMPLOYMENT COMPENSATION. On June 22, the House (374 to 10) passed HR 15119, the Unemployment Compensation Act of 1966. This House-passed bill increases unemployment taxes, broadens benefits, and expands coverage; but in details, and in provisions for requiring uniform federal standards, it differs from the Senate version. The two versions are now in conference, awaiting compromises before enactment into law. The House vote is tabulated in Column 15, C indicating a conservative stand against the bill as passed in the House.

FOREIGN AID. On July 14, the House (237 to 146) passed HR 15750, the Foreign Assistance Act of 1966, making a two-year foreign-aid authorization ($4.1 billion each year for fiscal 1967 and fiscal 1968). This vote is tabulated in Column 17, C indicating a conservative stand against passage of the foreign aid bill.

The House took a separate roll call on an amendment to reduce the authorization from two years to one. The amendment was defeated, 193 to 191. This vote is tabulated in Column 16, C indicating a conservative stand against two-year foreign aid authorization.

A compromise version of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1966 is presently before Congress. It grants $3.5 billion in foreign aid — one-year authorization for general foreign aid funds; multi-year, for Alliance For Progress and Development Loan Fund.

CIVIL RIGHTS. On August 9, the House (259 to 157) passed HR 14765, the Civil Rights Act of 1966. The House (222 to 190) rejected an amendment to delete the open housing section. As this goes to press, the Senate appears to have killed the Civil Rights Act of 1966.

House votes are tabulated in Columns 18 and 19, C in Column 18 indicating a conservative stand against the open-housing section of the Civil Rights Act; C in Column 19 indicating a conservative stand against passage of the act.

Help Needed!

On March 23, 1966, Representative Richard L. Roudebush (Indiana Republican) introduced HR 13942, to make desecration of the American flag a federal offense punishable by a $1000 fine and one year in jail. Because the liberal-dominated House Judiciary Committee refuses to hold hearings, Mr. Roudebush has instituted a Discharge Petition to bring HR 13942 to the floor of the House for consideration. The Petition requires the signatures of 218 Representatives. To date, only about 60 have signed it.

Please wire (or write) the U. S. Representative from your district, urging him to sign the Discharge Petition for HR 13942 — and get others to do the same.
